actuate

MEDIA MENTIONS

Actuate was previously named Aegis AI, and articles may refer to the company with this name.

Vox

Schools are using facial recognition to try to stop shootings. Here's why they should think twice.

"The way to think about how this type of AI works is that it can recognize the shape of a gun in the same way that a human can..." explained Actuate's CPO and Co-Founder, Ben Ziomek.

cheddar

One Startup Wants to Stop School Shootings With Gun-Detecting AI

"That means [Actuate] can detect the shape of a gun far more accurately than a human can."

Forbes

AI Security Camera Software Aims For $5 Billion Threat Detection Market

"[Actuate can] make security cameras more effective tools to help information travel faster if there is a shooter in the building."

TechCrunch

VCs bet on [Actuate], a startup using computer vision to detect guns

"[Actuate] integrates with existing camera hardware and video management software, requiring no on-site installation or maintenance."

actuate

MEDIA MENTIONS

Actuate was previously named Aegis AI, and articles may refer to the company with this name.

The Motley Fool

Security Tech: The Improvement Every Investment Needs

"[Actuate] can read a video security feed, use AI to identify a gun on camera, and take next steps. It requires no additional hardware or systems modification and almost nothing in the way of staff training."

sourceSecurity.com
making the world a safer place

Actuate Software Detects Gun Threats And Provides Real-Time Alerts

"Our new intruder- and threat-detection features help make our customers safer," said Ben Ziomek, Actuate Chief Product Officer.

U.S.News & WORLD REPORT

School[s] Turn to Apps, Other Tech to Protect Against Shootings

"[Actuate] is refining technology to identify a gun as soon as it enters an area that a camera is scanning."

builtin NYC

[Actuate] raises $2.2M to help prevent gun violence in schools

"That enabled [Actuate] to create AI that can identify a gun at 99 percent accuracy."