

OVERVIEW

Saint John Lutheran School is part of the Lutheran School System of the South Wisconsin District. The school and its integrated ministry currently fills an entire city block in downtown Plymouth, WI. With its growing academic programs and student body, security becomes a greater concern than ever before. This case study examines how Actuate's technology offered the most desirable solution to the school's growing security challenges.

PROBLEM

Saint John Lutheran School is a private school in Plymouth, Wisconsin, serving children from Pre-K to 8th grade. With a limited budget, the Principal was looking for a cost-effective alternative to hiring a team of security personnel to monitor the school's cameras and to ensure the safety of its students and staff, during and after school hours.

SOLUTION

By deploying Actuate's software into the school's existing cameras and video management system, school officials now receive real-time alerts on gun and intruder threats, turning their existing cameras into active, threat-detecting smart cameras, without requiring any up-front investments in additional hardware or operations.
